

Form Allied Commission In Pacific

Purpose Is To Formulate Policies To Carry Out Jap Surrender Terms

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes tonight announced the formation of an Allied commission in the Pacific to formulate policies for carrying out Japanese surrender terms. The commission, agreed to by Great Britain, Russia and China, will meet in Washington "in the near future."

Byrnes' announcement came at the time that American representatives were disclosed to be attempting to break a deadlock in the five-power council of foreign ministers through a proposal for a conference of all active belligerents against the Axis to discuss drafts of peace treaties with Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

In announcing the Pacific commission, Byrnes said he received from British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin the consent of the British government to the American proposal, made Aug. 22.

Nations Interested

France, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the Netherlands will be invited to join the commission on Japan, Byrnes said. He reported Bevin, in agreeing to the proposal, had asked that India be invited to become a member.

Byrnes said he would agree to India's membership and would submit the request to Russia and China for approval. The Washington session of the commission will decide, Byrnes continued, whether to hold meetings there or in Tokyo. The U. S. representative, he said, would be instructed to vote for meetings in Tokyo.

The American delegation to the five-power conference of foreign ministers was in session late tonight, and there were reports Soviet and British delegations also met privately.

Conference In London

Under the American plan to deal with peace settlements in the Balkans, the proposed conference of all powers aligned against the Axis, would be held in London in the near future, an authoritative source said, either after or simultaneously with the next session of the foreign ministers, probably in November.

The plan proposed that all belligerents air their views regarding the Balkan issues then turn the matter over to Russia, Britain and the United States for final handling. This would meet Russia's demand for exclusion of France and China from drafting of Balkan peace treaties.

Court Docket For Criminal Cases Monday

Seventeen Cases Scheduled For Trial During Term

The October term of criminal court will open Monday morning with Judge Dimmitt Hoffman presiding. Seventeen cases are scheduled to be set at the opening of court.

The case against Lawrence Keele, of the U. S. Navy, charged with first degree robbery in connection with the holdup-shooting of F. P. Norris at his hamburger place, Third street and Engineer avenue, last March, is scheduled to be set for re-trial. The case was tried in the June term resulting in a hung jury.

Keele, it is alleged, was with Robert Dooley, who pleaded guilty and was sentenced to ten years at Algoa Farms, Jefferson City. Dooley last week escaped from the reformatory and has not been apprehended. He was one of the main witnesses for the prosecution.

The young sailor who saw action in the Pacific theater of war has been held in the Pettis county jail. He was released July 23, on a $5,000 bond but was picked up by the military police, turned back to civil authorities upon request of the state and committed to the county jail.

Oil Strike Gets Underway In Oklahoma

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Actual strike of oil workers got underway in Oklahoma today when about 70 employees of the Sinclair Prairie Oil Co., ceased work at Kiefer, Okla., Boomday center of the famous Glenn pool producing area, 21 miles south of here.

R. G. Scott, district superintendent for the company, who announced the strike, said that cessation of work shut down production in his district as well as halting re-pressuring operations.

Labor Disputes Picture Shows Brighter Tone

Although There Is Still Plenty Of Trouble Ahead

By The Associated Press
The nationwide labor disputes picture had a brightening tone yesterday (Saturday) although there was still trouble ahead.

A strike of 15,000 building employees which affected more people than any other stoppage in the country, 1,500,000 in New York city, was ended by compliance of both sides with Governor Thomas E. Dewey's request for arbitration. The strikers' AFL union ordered them back to work immediately.

Ending of this and several smaller disputes dropped the national total of those away from work in labor disputes to approximately 397,000, from a postwar high of more than 420,000.

Another 38,000 idle in a 20-day strike of Westinghouse Electric Corp., "white collar" workers at Pittsburgh, Pa., and in five other eastern states may return to work next week on recommendation of their union officials who said the company had agreed, if they do so, to resume negotiations within 24 hours on wages, hours and working conditions.

Truman Appeal

President Truman was reported in Washington to be considering making a personal appeal to the CIO oil workers international union and petroleum industry representatives to halt strikes now involving 40,000 in nine states and threatening to become nationwide and affect 250,000.

But O. A. Knight, Fort Worth, Tex., union president, disclosed his group would be willing to settle for a flat 35 cents an hour increase which would be slightly less than the 30 per cent rate increase demanded. Industry had offered 15 per cent.

Secretary of Labor Schwelbach already intervened personally in the oil strike, telling the conferees in the capital that the government was "begging and pleading" with them to reach a settlement.

But in the Chicago area the oil strike was intensified when CIO pickets, massing humanity and automobiles at plant entrances, forced a gradual shutdown of the big standard oil company refinery at Whiting, Ind. This was the last refinery operating in that area and had been producing about 2,500,000 gallons of gasoline a day.

Try To Break Line

The Standard Oil Employees Association, Independent Union, claiming to represent 4,500 of 5,100 production employees at Whiting, announced its members, although not joining the strike, had been directed not to try to break the CIO picket line.

The Independent and the company said they were entering binding arbitration, according to their contract, on the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase. Standard Oil had offered 15 per cent.

Arrested For Trying to Keep Nazism Alive

American Troops Arrest Forty-one Prominent Persons

WAISBADEN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—American troops have arrested 41 prominent German men and women in one of the biggest raids in the American zone since the Allied occupation began, it was disclosed tonight.

A spokesman for Col. James R. Newman, of Floral Park, N. Y., commander of the Weisbaden military government, said those arrested included leaders of a ring which used both Freemason and Catholics to cloak efforts to keep Nazism alive.

Several former officials of the Nazi Wiesbaden district military government were caught in the raids, carried out Friday night in a cafe two blocks from military police headquarters, and seven blocks from the AMG district headquarters.

At least two and one-half tons of food—some of it American beef, ham and military rations—were found in the cafe along with handbills bearing the Nazi swastika, the military spokesman said.

Several Germans attempted to escape through windows but were caught by guards stationed outside. One of the leaders was identified by the spokesman as Dr. Margen, one of Germany's most prominent dental technicians.

They Were 'Brafs'

The group was led by men and women between the ages of 35 and 70, the spokesman said, explaining that they were the "Brafs" behind what appeared to be a ring to keep alive the Nazi philosophy.

"Typical of the subtlety of the propaganda we seized," he said, "was one reading 'The German people must cooperate with each other. Foreigners can never rebuild Germany.'"

Among those caught were three men who had been taken into custody previously and then released, but under careful surveillance since.

Warning To Argentine

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Urgent consultations among 20 American republics on possible actions against the government of Argentina appeared certain today.

Spruille Braden, ambassador to Argentina who has just returned here to become assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs, began conferences with top American officials. The talks provide a review of this country's whole policy toward the Argentine regime.

Authorities considered it inevitable that Braden's report, at least in substance, will be passed on as quickly as possible to the governments of all other western hemisphere nations except Argentina and that the views of those governments will be sought.

Argentina's reply to a cautious United States diplomatic warning against repressive measures fell on deaf ears here. John M. Cabot, ranking diplomat at the embassy in Argentina now that Braden is back here, informed Foreign Minister Juan Cooke that widespread arrests and suspension of democratic rights in Argentina over the past several days would have a "deplorable effect" on American public opinion.

Abolished Powers Japanese Regime Had Invoked Suppressing News Of Emperor

TOKYO, Sept. 29.—(AP)—General MacArthur, stripping the mystery from Japan's throne, abolished today the powers the imperial government had invoked a few hours earlier in suppressing publication of the emperor's pictures and interviews.

The Japanese home ministry had seized all copies of five Tokyo and Osaka newspapers and suspended the papers.

Its excuse was that the stories, in which the emperor had expressed to American correspondents his hopes for a more democratic Japan, were "too awesome and would have a bad effect on the Japanese people."

MacArthur's press headquarters, however, bluntly declared that the Japanese government actually suspended the papers "for publishing accounts of the emperor's call on MacArthur," a humble and unprecedented visit which many Japanese felt had caused their emperor to lose much face.

MacArthur's censor told the newspapers to resume publication and to go ahead and distribute the "forbidden" editions, which prominently displayed the interviews alongside a picture of the emperor and the supreme Allied commander, and to continue publication.

Papers Affected

The papers affected were Asahi, Mainichi and Yomiuri Hochi of Tokyo and Asahi and Mainichi of Osaka.

MacArthur's order was the strongest he had issued since the occupation began. It cut off the Japanese government from any control of newspapers, radios, the mails, telephones, telegraph lines and cables.

He also forbade retaliation against the Japanese press, directly or indirectly.

At the same time, MacArthur's chief economic aide declared that the assets of the imperial household would come under "increasingly close scrutiny," something else new in the life of Japan's emperors.

"We will be very curious about the imperial assets," said Col. Raymond Kramer, head of the economic and scientific section which is digging into all financial resources of the empire, public and private.

Rice Supply Dropped

The wealth of the great houses of Japan contracted with the prospect of actual starvation among the nation's millions, which Kramer declared was "very real" in the oncoming bitter months of winter.

Kramer said the supply of rice fell 4,500,000 tons short of estimated needs. The granaries of China, Korea and the Philippines, which once fed a victorious Japan, are inadequate to feed even those liberated peoples.

"We aren't going into any program like that (feeding the Japanese) without consulting Washington," Kramer asserted, adding that he assumed "Japan isn't going to be treated equally with the Allied nations."

The Japanese government already has been told to see that there is an equitable distribution of short commodities, but appeared so apathetic toward the people's plight that today MacArthur had to order it to work non-combatant shipping around the clock seven days a week to keep supplies moving.

Told To Build Vessels

The Japanese also were instructed to operate shipyards 24 hours a day to build the vessels needed to provide for the hungry population.

The Japanese war ministry reported to MacArthur that 1,833,634 officers and men of the home army had been demobilized and only 419,366 remained in uniform. Demobilization was complete in northern Honshu and in much of the region to the south.

The man responsible for the Pearl Harbor assault, former Premier Hideki Tojo, was so far recovered from a bungled attempt at suicide that doctors said he shortly would be moved to a jail outside Tokyo, to await possible trial as a war criminal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Insiders got a good look at how the Truman administration relaxes, how it thinks, how it regards the future, when Democratic bigwigs let their hair down on Jefferson island last week end.

President Truman, himself, rubbed shoulders with 200 congressmen, cabinet members, politicians, with a sprinkling of lobbyists thrown in. Putting on no airs, he seemed to enjoy just being one of the gang. Everyone liked him for his simplicity. . . . Those who had been at previous Jefferson island parties said they never realized before the difference in talking to a president who could go and come as he pleased, who could mingle with the crowd. . . . The late president was forced to sit under a tree while visitors were ushered up to him with a certain amount of formality. . . . But Truman was fortunate enough to be able to walk around, a paper plate in one hand, a pickle in the other, talking to whoever bumped into him. . . . The Secret Service incidentally, did a great job. At no time was it obvious that a bodyguard was with Truman, yet one man was constantly, unobtrusively there. (Russian bodyguards, who offended people while guarding Molotov at San Francisco, please take note.)

Labor's Best Friend

Jefferson Island highlights: Secretary of Labor Schwelb, philosophizing on labor strikes: "The best friend of labor is one who tells it frankly that it's sowing its own seeds of destruction, and that it has to get down to work on peacetime reconversion. As one of labor's best friends, I've got to call it to account."

Surplus property boss Symington and ex-brain trust Tom Corcoran talking about Russia: "The Russians don't understand us and can't understand us," said Symington. "Yet somehow we've got to get along with them. They have no tolerance for democracy. They believe in rule by harshness." . . . Symington told about visiting Gen. Eisenhower, who had been trying to pacify Marshal Zhukov over the fact that Time published a photo of a cabaret singer with a picture of Stalin between her legs. "We would shoot an editor who did a thing like that," said Zhukov. . . . Eisenhower told Symington how the Russians had shot down an American plane, and the American command suggested that the Russian pilot be sent over to U. S. headquarters. "We can't," replied the Russians. "We shot him." . . . Said Tom Corcoran: "It will pay us to make a gift of five or six billions to the British just to have them on our side. As bulwarks for democracy in Europe, the price is cheap."

Presidential Poker

President Truman watched games of horse-shoe, bridge and poker. . . . "How about joining us?" invited Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson. "No," replied the president, "that's an intellectual game. I was hoping to play some poker, but I'm going to pitch some horse-shoes." . . . Chief horse-shoe pitchers were Steve Early, ex-secretary to Roosevelt; George Skouras, 20th Century Fox movie mogul; insurance mogul George Allen, a close friend of Truman's; and Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington. . . . "I bet on Steve," said Truman. "He always knows how to pick a winner." . . . Steve Early, with Skouras as his partner, won 20 to 1. . . . On Saturday night, Truman sat down at poker with the secretary of the treasury, Judge Fred Vinson, who won heavily. Truman was reputed to have lost $310. Afterward he had a good time kidding Secretary Vinson. "I'm going to have his income-tax return checked to make sure he reports his winnings," the president wisecracked. . . . Next night,

DDT D-Bunked

It Kills Bugs, but There Are Plenty of 'Bugs' In the Insecticide Itself, Researchers Find

By NEA Service
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—DDT—the magic insecticide discovery of World War II—is not the wonder-preparation it's cracked up to be, Department of Agriculture researchers have revealed.

Here are some of the things a disillusioned public is finding out about DDT since its recent appearance on the market:

1. It is not a good all-purpose insect spray. DDT is very fussy stuff. For use against each bug or insect it requires a different, sometimes complicated application. A person almost has to be an expert to use it properly. For one kind of bug you have to mix it with water. For another you have to mix it with oil. For still another purpose, it must be dusted. Government experts admit that for general use around the home it is not much better than some of the popular insecticides sold before the war. One of the reasons for the army's success with DDT is that only experts used it.

2. It cannot kill the larvae of clothes moths, and it is the larvae which eat the holes in your overcoat. Properly applied, DDT does kill adult moths in a clothes closet, but not before they would have time to lay the eggs, which become larvae.

3. DDT acts much slower than most other commercial sprays. It takes up to an hour, sometimes, before the insect dies after contact. You can't spray a room-full of mosquitoes and kill them immediately, as you can with most commercial insecticides. DDT spray has to dry on the walls, screens or furniture. The insect must come in contact with it, and then some 45 minutes or so later it will die.

4. DDT is harmful to honeybees and other beneficial insects. It is highly toxic to fish and certain other cold-blooded animals.

5. Against the screwworm, the heel fly or cattle grub, the Chigger, and the poultry mite, DDT offers no protection.

6. Only some species of ants are affected by DDT. At best most of those can only be controlled for a few weeks with a time-consuming application. For cockroaches DDT is not quite as good as sodium flouride, which has been used for many years.

Olga and her 6-month-old baby camel in the Philadelphia zoo are given a spray of the new insecticide DDT, above. This camel family was the first zoo group in the nation to be used in such an experiment, intended mainly, in this instance to kill flies.

7. If used in a water spray, DDT leaves an undesirable white dust on furniture and walls. If used with kerosene or other oil it can soil clothing and furniture and is dangerous as a fire hazard and to persons and animals if it touches the skin.

Useful In Dairies

First reports of DDT's most successful peacetime use is from dairy farmers. Sprayed around barns it has been very effective in killing flies which are carried in on the cows.

Experiments with DDT as a spray for fruits and vegetables are still in preliminary stages. Already they show that DDT in soil at the rate of 25 pounds per acre retards the growth of most kinds of beans, onions, spinach, tomatoes, strawberry plants and rye. In a few years of spraying, the land could accumulate injurious amounts of the chemical and make it unfit for use. Some injury to squash and other cucurbits has resulted from light applications of the material.

Little is known about the toxic effect of DDT on humans. So far there has only been one reported death—in England—and there was no official investigation made of it. Persons who have worked with it and have had most opportunity to assimilate it in small amounts report mild cases of the jitters and nervousness.

It is not yet known how effective DDT will be against mice and other rodents.

Solutions Vary

Much confusion has resulted over the popular sale of DDT recently. Most users will have to learn what form or with what solution they want to buy it. There's a very specialized form of DDT for each use. Some dealers are reported selling very weak solutions and making exaggerated claims for it. To protect themselves purchasers are advised to read the labels carefully and acquaint themselves with the potency needed for the job to be done.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

Morton Downey, later joined in a songfest with North Carolina's "Muley Bob" Doughton. . . . House Republicans at luncheon this week were considering whether they should attack Truman for attending a party given by a lobbyist for Pepsi-Cola and sugar interests. They were referring to the fact that Jefferson Island host was Russell Arundel, owner of a Pepsi-Cola plant. . . . Perhaps what the Republicans didn't know is that Arundel once was secretary to staunch GOP Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island.

Four young boys were taken in custody Saturday night for soaping the tracks on the Grand avenue line of the Sedalia Transit Co. This caused the motorman on one of the company's cars to lose control and it collided with a farmer's wagon.

Truman's Luck

Presidential luck was with Truman when it came to hat pool. Chip Robert, ex-secretary of the Democratic National Committee, and George Allen, got up a couple of hat pools on the day's races. Truman participated, but sold half of his ticket to fellow Missourian Breckenridge Long, ex-assistant secretary of state. . . . Truman won the pool and split $40 with Long. . . . Congressmen were impressed with the fact that the president went to Jefferson Island on an ordinary river boat instead of riding on the naval vessel which escorted them. . . . Returning, he visited on the bridge with singer

'Famous Fourth' Cleared Paris

By NEA Service

When the Fourth Infantry Division came home it brought two New York from the people of Paris—a section of the iron gate that bounds the Tuileries Gardens, and a scarred corner stone from the Hotel Crillon. The "Famous Fourth" was selected to bear these gifts, because while the citizens of Paris crouched behind the Tuileries gate waiting for liberation, it was the men of the IV Division who drove in and crushed the last German defender.

The Fourth has another distinction. On D-Day, the 8th Infantry, one of the three regiments of the Fourth, swept ashore at Utah beach and earned the honor of being the first unit among all the invasion forces to touch the coast of Normandy. Three unit citations were given to elements of the Fourth for their heroic work in Normandy.

One of the Fourth's first tasks after reaching Normandy was to effect an escape route for isolated units of the 82nd Airborne Division who had parachuted into France and been cut off at Ste. Mere Eglise. The Fourth fought for the freedom of Cherbourg, and swung back to St. Lo where it aided in the breakthrough by riding through enemy lines clinging to tanks of the Second Armored Division.

By VE-Day, the Fourth had reached the Austrian border, and had suffered 21,500 casualties.

CAROLYN WORKS FAST

XII
THE STORY: Disturbed by the mystery telegram, Carolyn seals the envelope, leaves it on Leann's desk. Then she investigates the shipment. The X-999 is to be carried in a freight car, accompanied by guards. The freight is held up, robbed, Bob is killed. But Carolyn calms him. "The stuff wasn't there. I took it out, myself."

BOB came to Carolyn's home because it was the quickest way for them to meet. She had snatched on the first clothes available and she literally ran into the night when his car swerved to the curb. He stopped halfway out the car door, hatless, his hair uncombed, wearing not even a coat or tie. His voice was a study in misery.

"Oh, Bob!" She tried to speak calmly. "The X-999 was not on that freight train! It is still safe here in the city!"

"I helped put it on myself, yesterday morning!"
"No! You put on dummy packages! Bob—listen, I know you don't understand, but Ken Palmer and I removed those inner leaden boxes and substituted rocks! Yes, rocks!"

"But Carolyn—" He was beginning to believe, at least to hope. He gripped her shoulders now.

"I was going to tell you but you were away all day yesterday. Ken and I did our work at 2 in the morning. The stuff is safe. I—Bob, I had a sort of tip. A hunch! Don't ask me any more yet. Just come on! Let me drive!"

She ran around to the wheel and when he had collected his wits again they were well out toward the Schoenfeld Laboratory.

WHEN they arrived she took him into the compound and to the laboratory proper. He was surprised to see several of their hired guards still on duty. "I ordered them to stay," she explained. "And paid them."

She had a key to the laboratory door. "I copied your key, Bob. Had it done. Stuck yours on chewing gum to get a mold, then used candle wax. A locksmith cut one easily from that. I—forgive me, Bob! And wait."

She let him in and the door closed behind them. For a moment they stood in semi-darkness. Only the great looming form of the Schoenfeld cyclotron assailed them, silhouetted in part against the high windows.

"Perhaps it is best not to turn on the main lights," she said. "Wait—a desk lamp—" She crossed to the sturdy oak cabinet table where work sheets were usually spread out. In a moment she had the small light burning.

"Bob—please. He was still in somewhat of a daze. While he watched, she swung back one of the four broad bottom doors of the cabinet. Gingerly she then lifted the lid of a strong wooden packing box. Bob peered in.

He saw four small leaden cases, sealed, cushioned in crude but effective burlap padding. He knew them to be his own.

"Carolyn!" He barely breathed that, but it was a speech of infinite relief and gratitude.

LEST state police and newspaper reporters flood the laboratory, Bob hastened to go back downtown. He didn't want too much attention to him and his work. He explained to police that his shipment had been chemicals only and that he couldn't imagine who would steal them, nor why.

By mid-morning Leana Sormi had returned, heard of the robbery and she rushed to Bob with every possible aid and sympathy. Carolyn left them at state police headquarters. She was strangely keyed up now. She even forgot to eat.

"I have to move fast!" she told herself.

She inspected her purse. Then she called a taxi, went to a bank and took out all the $340 she had saved. Next she ordered a taxi driver to take her to the municipal airport, and there she made another business deal.

By noon her taxi driver had her back at the laboratory again, and when she alighted this time she smiled her sweetest at him and said, "I need a strong man to help me carry something."

"That's me, miss!" the driver answered with alacrity. "You want a trunk moved? I'll make room on the back rack."

"Not a trunk, a box. And—'d be ever so much happier if it went inside. On the seat itself. I—here!" She thrust a $5 bill at him.

He grinned. "Lady, I'll carry the box in me teeth if you want!"

SHE asked two of the guards to help him. The box was small but astonishingly heavy. She explained, in partial truth, that it contained some leaden forms which Dr. Hale wanted moved, and some "other heavy junk." Her heart went bump-bump-bump double time during the whole loading procedure.

Some 40 minutes later she had transferred the box to an airplane, a powerful cabin ship now under her personal lease, with pilot awaiting orders. She told the pilot she would be back.

"We going after another box, miss?" her taxi driver asked as they drove away from the municipal airfield this second time.

"No. After a—man."

"Eloppement, I'll bet!" She sighed at that, in a much-needed relaxation. "I wish it were. Driver, how in the world does a—a self-respecting girl pursue a man?"

This is Tokyo, Imperial City,' Today

Homeless, Hungry, Despairing, the Conquered People of the Bombed Jap Capital Taste the Bitter Dregs of Defeat

GUTTED BY BOMBS of the mighty American Air Force, homes of the defeated "ancestors of the sun" lie in useless ruin. With the cessation of war, homeless Japs came out of their dens in the hills and crept back to the charred Main Street of "Shanty Town" Tokyo. Here, with the battered bricks of a once proud building, with the shredded roofing from a merchant's store, with the burned beams of a demolished school house, the Japs build makeshift homes. Horse-drawn carts haul rubble away.

AMID DIRT AND RUBBLE a Japanese mother scrubs her youngster. Personal cleanliness is a custom among the Japs. Child gets a bath in a wooden tub.

FAMILY GARDENS are a meager source of food. Every inch of land is patched with carefully tended vegetables. A mother and child raise food for winter.

COBBLER who once repaired shoes in his comfortable shop has been forced to move to the street corner. Here he stitches shoes for a little girl.

TOKYO TODAY is a far cry from the pre-war "Imperial City." Hunger, filth, and a constant struggle for survival dominate life in the bomb-shattered capital. Crowds stream out of subway exit at Shinbashi station. Shortage of transportation facilities is a major problem in the jam-packed city.

RATION DAY in Tokyo means getting up early, jogging to the depot and waiting amid heat and dirt for a scanty portion of beans which is a substitute for non-existent rice. A mother, her baby strapped to her back, holds out her ration book for a 10-day supply of food. Eager faces look to the ration depot master with hope.

SCAVENGER HUNT has replaced shopping trips for Japs. Bombed out of their market places, their homes and their stores, the people of the Imperial City, barter and haggle with sidewalk peddlers. Clothing is also another scarce commodity. Rags and tags are the style in poverty-stricken, shattered Tokyo.

Only Males Chirp

Insects don't chirp in unison, as people probably think they do. It just sounds that way. In a chorus of crickets or katydids, it's every man for himself, and they are males, since it's only the males that can chirp.

Placed in Monument

Copies of the Constitution of the United States and of the Declaration of Independence, among other articles, were placed in the cornerstone of the Washington Monument.

One From Two Wrecks

When two railway cars on London's underground railway suffered bomb damage resulting in one-half of each being rendered beyond repair, transport engineers joined the undamaged portions to make one serviceable car.

Halsey Requests Retirement

Hard-Hitting Admiral Wants To 'Give Younger Officers A Chance'

HONOLULU, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Admiral Halsey, famed commander of the U. S. Third fleet, announced Friday he had requested retirement.

The hard-hitting admiral, whose powerful fleet sparked the drive that chased Japan's navy from the seas, told a press conference he was taking the step to give young officers a chance.

"I'm an old man; let the young fellows take over," Halsey declared.

The admiral said the navy had not yet taken him into its confidence on whether his application had been acted upon.

Nor did he have any particular plans for the future, he added.

Obviously speaking "under wraps" Halsey delved only a few times into his seemingly endless collection of colorful stories and phrases.

Speaks Cautiously

"You don't know how much trouble I get into every time I talk," Halsey explained when asked why an advance notice of a press conference gave indication that caution would play a major role in the interview.

"My wife told me to be more dignified in my expression," the admiral said, laughing.

The notice of the press conference had been given earlier this week and Halsey had requested that any questions relating to broad policies be submitted in advance.

The admiral displayed his old time form, however, in saying that the person he most wanted to see when in Tokyo was the "keeper of the zoo" but he couldn't find him.

He explained that one.

During one of Japan's celebrations of the mythical sinking of the United States fleet, a number of prominent military and civil officials were interviewed, Halsey said.

Special Cage Ready

"One was the keeper of the zoo who said he hoped that Halsey fellow was rescued alive from the sea because he had a special cage in the monkey house for him," the admiral said showing his familiar wide grin.

On the serious side, Halsey came out for compulsory military training and reaffirmed his support of General MacArthur. Regarding the Allied supreme commander in Japan, Halsey said:

"If they will leave him alone and tell him what they want, he will conduct the occupation so that Japan never will get beyond a fifth rate nation, which it now is," Halsey declared.

Defends MacArthur

Asked what he meant by "leaving him (MacArthur) alone," the admiral said the newsmen surely read the newspaper and had not understood the criticisms of the general. He termed the criticisms "entirely undeserved."

(Some Allied sources have criticized MacArthur for what they termed his "soft" handling of the Japanese. The general has stated he is conducting the occupation along lines laid down by Allied powers, and by working through Japanese officialdom is obviating the need of a strong Allied military force within the country to impose the conquerors' will.)

Halsey said the atomic bomb was "pretty potent."

"But every weapon developed since fighting was done by throwing stones has been hailed as a weapon to end all wars," he added. "But they all have been countered. I expect to see the atomic bomb countered. The doughboy and the navy always will be needed."

Halsey said he wasn't surprised by the sudden end of the war because he knew it was about over last July 10, after his Third fleet roamed for six weeks as it pleased off the coast of Japan.

The admiral will leave for San Francisco Oct. 9 with the Third fleet for Oct. 27 navy day celebrations on the west coast.

He said that 31 submarines, each a veteran with an inspiring record, would accompany the surface warships.

The previously announced list of 54 ships to head for the United States west coast had been increased to 59. He named three of them, the cruiser Los Angeles and carrier Hancock, both to go to San Pedro, Calif., and the cruiser San Diego, bound for the city for which it is named.

Car Stolen From Kansas City Is Found Here

A 1941 Maroon Ford coach was parked on Fourth street, across from the Bothwell hotel for several days, was identified as one stolen out of Kansas City May 20, from in front of 1306 East Thirty-seventh street.

The car belongs to David Hendrix, 8454 Highland, Kansas City, who is now in the Pacific. Mrs. Hendrix accompanied by her father-in-law, came to Sedalia Saturday and obtained the car.

Chairman Hannigan And Mrs. Geo. F. Chambers

National Democratic Chairman Robert Hannigan, also Postmaster General of the United States, "feeds" the Democrat donkey while Mrs. Mabel Chambers, Sedalia, recently elected president of the Sixth District Democratic Women's Clubs, looks on. The Postmaster General was the principal speaker at the Sixth District Women's convention held in Springfield, Missouri, recently. The donkey is a replica of one which stands in the study of the President of the United States Harry S. Truman, in the White House, and of one which is in the study of Governor Phil Donnelly at Jefferson City.

Report Two Men Stole Car

The 1936 Oldsmobile coach of F. R. Staley, Jr., 206 East Fifth street, was stolen Friday afternoon from in front of his home, sometime between 12:00 o'clock noon and 4:00 o'clock, by two young men. The car was reported to the police as having been stolen and a radio broadcast was made by the local police and the state highway patrol.

It was reported this car was at the Maltberger filling station, 52 highway and 65 highway, (Windor Junction) about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon and the driver obtained gasoline. According to information given local officers, two young men were in the car and ordered fifteen gallons of gasoline and some motor oil. After the gasoline had been put into the car and the attendant had gone for the oil, the car was driven off at a fast rate of speed and headed south.

A good description of the two was obtained by the filling station attendant.

Boost Points On Fats Turned In

Ration point allowances for used household fats turned in to local butchers and other collection stations have been boosted from two to four points per pound, effective Monday, October 1, it was announced today by Wm. T. Angle, District Director for the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration.

The critical state of the nation's industrial fats and oils supplies was cited by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the OPA as the reason the increase in ration points was decided upon, Mr. Angle said.

"U. S. supplies of industrial fats and oils are critically less than requirements," he explained, "and no relief from domestic sources is in sight for the present crop year. Imports may increase slightly after the first of the year, but the value of imports is uncertain for the present."

Hinkle, 25, of 2834 Forest Avenue, Kansas City, and Marine Private First Class Dennis C. Connor, 26, of La Monte. Hinkle was made prisoner at the fall of Corregidor and Connor was one of the survivors of the epic defense of Wake Island. Both simply walked out of their prison camps after Jap guards left following the surrender statement by the emperor. They hitchhiked by train to Kagashimi airfield where they found the first echelon of the occupation forces.

Boys Overseas Want Presents They Can't Buy at the P.X.

By Epsie Kinard
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — If you don't know your Joe's overseas status, don't send him a Christmas gift. During these times of mustering out and redeployment his Yuletide cheer is apt to heighten that pile of unclaimed packages which, authorities say with a sad shake of their heads, will be more mountainous than ever.

If you actually know, however, that Joe is going to stay put and where overseas he is going to be, get going. Oct. 15 is the last day home folks are still tops on the list, say returned vets. Folders for snapshots or service wallets with a section allotted for Joe's pin-up girl make slick gifts. So do comfort-aiding togs — house slippers, bathrobes and pajamas — which he is now finding more opportunity to use.

He has more time to write, play games, smoke a pipe and take snapshots of his peacetime travels, so supply him as the wherewithal — stationery kits, cribbage board, chess and dice sets, cameras and film, pipes and

1. A clipping book of newspaper items telling of home town goings-on. This and the suggestions to follow come from servicemen who know what it takes to bridge the gap between the Christmas at home and one spent on foreign soil.

2. Cut from your local newspaper and paste up news of the football coach; what the team is doing; who won high school or college honors, who has gotten married and had babies and who is back from the wars.

3. Compile a book of newspaper clippings which tell the story of his ship, company, regiment or operations during the war. This is more work, but Joe will thank you all of his life for preserving this record.

3. Make up a book of the funniest cartoons you can clip from newspapers and magazines, and paste side by side in an ordinary notebook to make an impressive and morale-lifting collection. This gift, the boys say, will become so dog-eared from being passed around that Joe won't have anything left of it but happy memories.

61st Wing Under Col Landis Controls Western Installations

With new Commanding General, Maj Gen Paul L. Williams at the helm, Troop Carrier's streamlining for peace time operations was well under way this week with the placing of operational control of all bases in TCC's continental command in the hands of the two Wing Headquarters of the Command. SAAF's own 61st Wing Hdqtrs. under Col Reed G. Landis assumed control of the western half of the command under this new directive.

Under the new designation, Col Landis' responsibilities will be greatly increased and all departments of Wing Headquarters will be called upon to handle a greater volume of work. Additional personnel will be added to the various staffs in the Wing and effective October 1, Wing and Base Headquarters will exchange buildings to allow for the increase in office space needed by the Wing.

Wing Headquarters will continue to operate from Sedalia AAF and will have under their control the Groups and Base Units at Sedalia, Bergstrom Field, Tex., George Field, Ill., and Blytheville, Ark. Groups and Base Units now in existence at Alliance, Neb., Malden, Mo., Kellogg Field, Mich., and Marfa, Tex., are to be handled directly by Command Headquarters. The 60th Wing Headquarters at Pope Field, N. C., will have control of that Base, Laurinburg-Maxton AAB, N. C., and Lawson Field, Ga.

The command responsibility of the Wings over units designated will not cover personnel, administration, supply and maintenance, except insofar as those functions directly affect operational efficiency. Thus, the mobility of the Headquarters group will in no way be hampered by bulky equipment and overwhelming amounts of paper work. This statement will apply to the Groups assigned to the bases as well, making for complete mobility of the operational units of Troop Carrier Command under any emergency.

Plans at present call for the establishment of a highly mobile operational Group at each base for the purpose of organizing and handling the training and Troop Carrier operations from that base. The Base Unit, or base complement, will continue to function as such, operating the personnel offices, supply, engineering and maintenance offices—in short, all the units involving heavy equipment, paper work, procurement functions or soldier comfort functions—immobility.

The program as it now stands calls for the expansion of the newly assigned Groups on each base to the full extent of their Table of Organization and Table of Equipment. For example, the 439th TC Group recently assigned to SAAF will be completely re-manned and will operate under their own Commanding Officer and staff as an "operational unit" stationed at SAAF. The Base Unit will continue to operate as the administrative unit for the base and will have its Commanding Officer and staff as in the past. Its job will be to co-operate with and furnish all material aid

NERVE AND CHEMICAL CONTROL

Chemicals secreted by various glands and tissues are absorbed into the blood stream and carried to and control action of distant organs but in all cases the action was originally influenced by nerves. Every function of the body is controlled by nerves. When the acid contents of the stomach come in contact with the walls of the first part of the intestines it causes the tissues in the stomach to secrete a substance called secretin. When this secretin is absorbed in the blood and reaches the pancreas it causes this gland to become active and secrete elements which are necessary for the further digestion of the elements which have come from the stomach and started the process.

Nerve stimulation will cause an immediate activity of the pancreas whereas the activation from secretin is slower. There are many of these hormonal activities in the body, some affect the glands directly but in most cases they activate the nerves to the organ or part and it is the stimulation of the nerves which finally produce the action.

Continued irritation of nerves, where they leave the spine and caused by vertebral subluxations, can produce a continual disturbance in the secretions of various organs, glands and tissues secreting hormones and ultimately lead to disease. Chiropractic spinal adjustments can correct many of these conditions which can be reached in no other way. Try chiropractic to regain your health.

Eyestrain Picks Its Victims YOUNG!

ONE school child in five, on the average, has defective vision. Four college students in ten are victims of eye troubles. Accustomed for centuries to outdoor living, mankind has never adjusted eyes to lower levels of indoor lighting.

Fortunately, science is bringing sunlight indoors. And the science of seeing is teaching us how to use indoor light with least danger of eyestrain. Here are four suggestions for eyesight conservation it will pay every family to follow.

- 1 Do all reading, studying, sewing, or game-playing close to a good light source, preferably a modern reading lamp.
- 2 Avoid glare from bare bulbs. Don't sit facing the light. Glare strains eyes.
- 3 Avoid shadows. Make sure you have good light directly on your book or work. Shadows strain eyes.
- 4 Have eyes examined regularly. If eyes are defective, vision can be greatly helped with proper glasses.

When the war is over we are all going to have Better Light for Better Sight. In the meantime, let's conserve both eyesight and light. Take care of your eyes, but don't waste light.

Mission to Shangri-la Sealed Friendship Between Dalai Lama and United States

Many of the adventures of American intelligence agents in the Office of Strategic Services read like spy thrillers. This is the first of a series of articles by Douglas Larsen revealing hitherto secret activities of O. S. S. agents, often referred to as "the cloak and dagger boys."

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Mission to fabled Shangri-la was the strange assignment given to Lt. Col. Illia Andre Tolstoy, explorer, adventurer and brother of the famous Russian novelist, by the Office of Strategic Services.

He was one of many O. S. S. foreign intelligence agents whose assignments carried them to every corner of the earth. As secret service agents for American forces, they did the undercover work for military victories.

Tolstoy's assignment was to deliver a wrist watch and personal letter from the late President Roosevelt to the Dalai Lama, High Priest of Tibet. From this mountainous and isolated area, made famous in the legend of Shangri-la, Tolstoy was to explore lands never before traveled by a white man. He was to seek a short cut into China.

Guided By Natives

The expedition started in October, 1942. Capt. Brooke Dolan, of Philadelphia, who has since died in China, accompanied Tolstoy. When they entered Tibet four natives served as guides and porters. In addition to the wrist watch, which told the time of day, day of year and phase of the moon, and the letter, the expedition carried an autographed picture of the President in a rich silver frame which Tolstoy had ordered in India.

During the trip through the mountains the tiny party heard rumors of a band of Germans who had preceded them and had been stoned to death because they had broken in on a religious ceremony in a village and had smoked cigarettes. Tibet is considered a religious state. Two out of three male inhabitants are monks. Their journey was like a return to the 14th Century.

Destination of the first part of the mission was Lhasa, Tibet, royal home of the Dalai Lama. The party had to wait outside the gates of the city a week for a special religious day. Once inside the city, they had to wait another week for another religious day, before they could meet the Dalai Lama.

Every action of the group was made a highly ceremonial affair. With each new acquaintance there was an exchange of scarves.

The palace of the Lama was the most magnificent building any of them had ever seen. Few white men ever visited it before. With elaborate ceremony, Tolstoy and his party were ushered into the throne room. The Lama was a 10-year-old boy, healthy, intelligent-looking, with a sort of ruddy-yellow skin. Not a word was spoken.

Every part of the ritual which followed was an exchange of gifts. Porters in the small American party exchanged gifts with those of comparable rank in the palace. Huge Provost Monks stood beside the Lama. They were all more than six feet, four inches tall and their size was enhanced by heavy, quilted clothing.

One of the largest monks, who, it was learned later, had been graduated from Rugby in England, handed Tolstoy a small piece of bread, a holy book and a holy image. He led Tolstoy close to the Lama. The Lama took the bread and other items and handed back a grey silk scarf which was the most beautiful piece of cloth Tolstoy had ever seen. Then Dolan presented the gifts from the President to the Lama. For the first time, the Lama spoke. The Russian monk translated his remarks to Tolstoy as an inquiry into the health of President Roosevelt. He replied:

"According to my last report, he was feeling fine."

This is all that was said. Tea and rice was passed around. A taster tested the Lama's tea.

Misses Irene Wingate, Martha Stinson, Marie Arnold and Mrs. Helen Finster drove to Boonville and did fall shopping.

Harold Hamlin, who has been in military service overseas the past several months, arrived home to spend a 30-day furlough with his wife, three children and other relatives.

Alfred Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Alexander, arrived in New York recently, from which place he called his parents. He will receive his discharge from Jefferson Barracks after serving many months overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wingate, of Camdenton, called on relatives here while en route to Jefferson City on business. Norman is in the automobile business in Camdenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Leonard and little daughter, Carol, of Ferguson, recently visited their

For his successful mission to the Dalai Lama in Tibet, and thence to China over territory never before explored by white men Lt. Col. Illia Andre Tolstoy received the Legion of Merit from Maj. Gen. William V. Donovan, head of the Office of Strategic Services.

They threw part of the rice over their shoulders for good luck. Suddenly one of the Provost monks let out a tremendous roar. The visiting party jumped. They were relieved to learn it was merely a sign the interview was over.

Several times later, Tolstoy met the Lama informally, but no business was discussed. Arrangements for the second leg of the journey were made with the high priests. All the time the party was there they were treated royally.

Asked To Stay

When Tolstoy said he wanted to continue on his journey he was asked to stay for a while. He didn't understand why, until he discovered that many women were working on expensive silk tapestries and pictures for the President.

Finally, after a great celebration, the little group left the city. Their trek across the bitterly cold stretches of Tibet became an endless succession of hardships. Much of the territory was wild, bandit country. Tolstoy always carried an American flag, held in plain view, and let it be known by the grape-vine that he had tommy-guns and radio equipment. They were never openly attacked.

Along the route in the small villages, Tolstoy would spend hours tending the sick. They had no medical supplies. He became a hero of the natives.

In July, 1943, they finally reached Lanchow in China. This was the first outpost of civilization. General Stillwell wired congratulations to Tolstoy on the success of the mission, and he later received the Legion of Merit.

Tolstoy's home is in Marineland, Fla. He has been a U. S. citizen since 1924. He is a large, middle-aged, genial diplomat with a slight Russian accent. Tolstoy volunteered for duty with OSS.

Sgt. Emil Morris, Jr., Is In Tokyo

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Morris, 1701 South Montgomery avenue, have received a letter from their son, Sgt. Emil Morris, Jr., whom they had not heard from for seven weeks.

The letter in part follows:

"Dear Dad and Mother:

"Yes I know it has been a long time since I wrote but I have been in Japan I was there a week before the signing of peace. I had a nice room at the Rising Sun hotel, maid service and all, but it soon proved to be a big problem to eat. We could get rations but the gas in the kitchen went on and off but we never starved.

"Most of my work was bomb damage, although where I lived in Yokohama there was just one raid by the B-29s and then I was told it was by 250 of them. The city itself was well burned out. You could walk down the street and see nothing but ruins and then all at once a building would show up without a mark on it. But eighteen miles away was Tokyo and that place was completely wrecked."

Sgt. Morris was formerly photographer and engraver for the Democrat-Capital.

M. U. Tigers Crushed By Ohio State

Sarringhaus Roars Back From The Army Scores 4 Touchdowns

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Paul Sarringhaus, the "Hamilton Hurricane," roared back into the intercollegiate football picture today from the Army to score four touchdowns and lead Ohio State to a 47 to 6 victory over Missouri in the Bucks' opening football game of the season.

For three periods Ohio State, unbeaten and untied a year ago, did almost as it pleased with the hapless Missourians and it was not until the final 15 minutes that the Tigers even threatened.

But was Sarringhaus who took down the honors before 41,299 fans. The Hamilton, O., player, who wears contact lens glasses, scored Ohio's first touchdown in the first period on a nine-yard dash around right end. Then he turned the scoring chores over to Ollie Cline, sophomore fullback from Fredericktown, O., for the next two tallies.

After that it was all Sarringhaus. Three times he crossed the goal line in the third period on runs of 41, 10 and 11 yards. Don Steinberg, another discharged veteran, accounted for Ohio's last score by gathering in an attempted Missouri lateral pass and steaming 19 yards to scoring territory.

Until the final period Missouri never was beyond Ohio's 42-yard line. A clipping penalty on a punt return in the last quarter set Ohio back to its one-yard line and the Buck reserves could not dig out of that hole until after Missouri had scored.

At that, it took the Tigers almost 12 minutes to get across that last white stripe. Little Leonard Brown finally made it from the one-yard line.

Missouri got only one first down in the first three periods of action and until the Ohio State reserves entered the game appeared to be well on its way to winding up the tilt with a net loss in yards gained. The Tigers' drive in the last period saved the day for them statistically, however, and they finished with six first downs to Ohio State's 12. Their net gain from scrimmage, however, was only 37 yards as compared with Ohio State's 311.

Peru Defeats Mules 7 To 0

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Al Wheeler's Peru, Neb., Teachers eleven racked up its second victory of the yet infant football season here Friday night by squeaking through to a 7-0 decision over the Warrensburg Mules.

The Bobcats, beaten only by Washburn thus far this season were turned away from the scoring sector in the opening quarter but bounced back in the second period to ram across the winning touchdown when Rosenblum went over from the 1-yard line for the tally.

Peru set the stage for the touchdown march shortly after the start of the quarter when Dameron, Warrensburg quarterback, fumbled on the 30-yard line and Becker recovered for the Bobcats. Bill Kernan, Bobcat fullback, skirted right end to the Warrensburg 20, and a lateral from Ruede to Peterson moved the ball to the 7.

Kernan, on a reverse from Peterson, went off right tackle to the 1-yard line from which point Rosenblum smashed his way through the Mules' line for the score. Ruede's boot from placement accounted for the extra point.

Warrensburg's sole touchdown bid was made shortly after the start of the game when the collective efforts of Jake Stark, Neil Pinnington and Bill Dameron advanced the ball as far as the Peru 12-yard line before the Bobcats braced and took the ball on downs.

Cards Announce Purchase Of Six Players from Farms

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals today announced the purchase of six players from their farm clubs for delivery next spring.

Conilyn W. Meriwether, pitcher and utility man; Charles E. Baran, first baseman; Otis A. Davis and Arthur L. Nichols, outfielders, will be brought up from the Redbirds' Rochester club, while outfield Jack McLain and infielder Robert Rhawn have been secured from the Columbus club.

Kemper Beats Tigers 13-6 Friday Night

3 35-Yard Pass By Rodgers To Miller For S-C Touchdown

The Smith-Cotton Tigers, Friday night, were defeated at Brimley by Kemper Military Academy by a score of 13 to 6, in a game which appeared to be a one-sided affair but was cut short by a determined little Tiger eleven. The game was played on a muddy field.

Kemper scored the first touchdown when an end play put the pigskin over the goal line, and a rush through center netted the extra point for the military lads. The Tigers quickly took hold of the situation and held the Kemper military team which outweighed them nearly ten pounds to the man and held them scoreless from then until the third quarter. A similar play netted the Kemper second touchdown but they failed for the extra point.

The Tigers threatened the Military group in the third quarter when they scored their lone touchdown to make the score 6 to 7, but failed for the extra point. The Sedalians put on a drive which had the Kemper team shaking in their shoes, even if they didn't come out with the large end of the score.

It happened in the third quarter when the Kemper team pushed right down on the Sedalia goal line and lost the ball on downs. Cal Rodgers had been injured and was pulled back to the backfield from his center position. Rodgers called the play, fumbled the ball when he had intended to punt it out. Hurriedly he picked it up and reversed himself and tore out from behind the goal line and went to the twenty-yard stripe.

The battle started, the drive went slow, but the Tigers carried he pigskin down into Kemper territory. Rodgers dropped back and pulled the play which the team had been setting up from the time Kemper had first scored, he whipped the ball 35 yards through the air to David Miller, who was behind the goal line and away from any Kemper interference for the touchdown. A line rush failed for the point.

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow, Saturday, in remarking about the game had nothing but good words for his team. "Even if they did lose, they still had that determination and the fight to win. If they keep it, they are going to win and it wouldn't surprise me if they don't surprise this strong Springfield team next Friday night."

Saturday the "B" squad, nineteen boys strong, went to Jefferson City, and in a drizzling rain played the Jefferson City high school "B" eleven, winning the game 14 to 0. It was a slippery and heavy field, and few passes were tried.

A reverse play in the second quarter with Green carrying the ball brought the first blood for Sedalia, and a pass. Shultz to Green the extra point. Then in the third quarter Oversby went through center for 35 yards. A pass Shultz to Green got the second touchdown and Shultz carried it through the line for the extra point.

Next Saturday the Marshall "B" team comes to Sedalia, and later the "B" squad will meet Jefferson City here, and then a trip to Marshall for a return game with that team.

With the exception of four players the "B" squad was composed of Freshmen and Sophomores.

Bradley's home is in Greenwood, Ark., and Pavlick lives in Benton Harbor, Mich.

Cubs Win The 1945 Pennant; Cards Second

Borrowy $100,000 'Pennant Insurance' Pays With Interest

By Sid Feder
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—(P)—The Cubs are in.

The Chicago champs who took over the National league lead in July and held it all the way against the surge of the St. Louis Cardinals, nailed the pennant to their flagpole today for the first time since 1938.

The $100,000 "pennant insurance" they bought from the New York Yankees in mid season—Hank Moroway—aid off in the clincher with an eight-hit 4 to 3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first half of a double header that put the flag on ice, giving the Cubs their 16th league crown since 1876 for an all-time high. This one broke a tie at 15 apiece that they'd been in with the New York Giants since 1938.

Just for good measure, the Cubs also took the darkness-shortened second game 5-0, in 7 innings with Hy Vendenberg and Lon Warneke dividing the pitching chores and Caught Pail Gillespie whacking a two-run homer.

All the Detroit Tigers have to do to get their ticket of admission is split tomorrow's double-header with the Browns in St. Louis.

Borrowy and his mates had to come from behind in the seventh and ninth innings to reach the payoff window today and then Hank had to call for the bullpen fire department of Lefty Bob Chipman and Beane Pole Paul Erickson to put out a Buc blaze that threatened to burn up the pennant party at the last minute.

But when Erickson pushed a wide-breaking curve past Pinch Hitter Tom O'Brien, with Pirates on second and third and two away in the ninth, it was all over.

The "crusher" had been applied by the Cubs in the top half of the ninth when Handy Andy Paik's fly to deep right with the bases loaded had sent Stan Hack, who walked, scampering home with the tie-breaking, game-winning marker. Paik did his stuff against nick Strincevich, who came in on that spot after Fritz Ostermuller's left pottside shots had given up all ten of the Cubs' hits during the game.

Cards Win A Couple

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27.—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals went down winning today. They won a pair of ball games from the Cincinnati Reds and lost the National league pennant to Chicago Cubs.

Fighting with what the most optimistic called a slim mathematical chance, the Cards took the opener 5-3 with Rookie Ken Burkhardt spacing 10 hits. They won the nightcap 6-2 as Manager Billy Southworth tried out a number of his green hands.

In the opener both teams were even for three innings with two hits apiece and then the Cards exploded. They worked three singles, a double and a pair of Cincinnati errors for four runs. In the fifth they added another to complete their scoring.

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—(P)—The Boston Braves made merry at the expense of three New York hurlers today, hammering out 17 hits including homers by Chuck Workman and Phil Masi, to vanquish the Giants 13-4 in the opener of a scheduled double header. The second game was cancelled because of a heavy rain.

Al Wright, rookie righthander, held the Giants to five blows, including a round tripper by Roy Zimmerman, to register his eighth victory.

Star Pilot Wins The 56th Futurity at New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(P)—Star Pilot carried the colors of Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham to victory in the 56th Futurity, world's richest race for juveniles, today after his staminate, with a charge containing only a single ball or slug. Buckshot won the race by a margin of 50 feet from the finish.

The Graham pair went to the post favored at $3.40 for $2 and Beaugay, unbeaten in six previous starts, was running fourth when she hit the rail. Star Point went on to win in a hard drive and take first money of $52,940.

Sport Scraps

(By D. KELLY SCRUTON)

THE Proposed Memorial to the boys and girls who were in, and those who are in, the armed forces of our country, from Sedalia, has brought about so much discussion among Sedalians who are for this or for that, that many are wondering just what really is going on. Of course everyone interested is asking this one, and that one, if they think the Memorial Center or a Municipal Buildings is the thing for a Memorial, and some answers received even stump the person who is trying to answer them.

Recently I talked with Alderman Dick Keenan, of the Second Ward, and naturally asked him, why he was against the Memorial Center, which brought a near explosion. Of course I could understand why Mr. Keenan nearly exploded, because if ever a man was interested in the welfare of the younger generation, he is that man. He has sponsored recreation at Washington school, helped the boys in his ward organize baseball and other sports.

Mr. Keenan was definite in his answer to me that he was not opposed to a recreational center, so I asked him to write me a letter which I could print. The letter is as follows:

"Sedalia, Missouri, September 29, 1945
"Mr. Kelly Scruton,
"Democrat-Capitol,
"Sedalia, Missouri.
"Dear Kelly,

"Regarding the current discussion of monuments for our returned boys and girls of the services, I would like to make the following comments.
"Now that peace has once more come into its own, the problems of peace present themselves for discussion and adjustment.

"It is only natural and entirely fitting that we show our appreciation and gratitude to our homecoming boys and girls. "Eager for home and hungry for the love of family and friends, with the plaudits of a grateful nation ringing in their ears, and with a prayer in their hearts, the returning heroes of the world's battle stage re-enter the life for which they offered their all.

"It is our solemn obligation that we present them with a homecoming and a home front worthy of the sacrifices they must be able to offer them not only a clean record of support in their absence, but must also show our appreciation by insuring them real jobs and a decent place in the society of their own choosing. They have earned and have the right to expect the loyal support of all the agencies of the government which they so loyally defended in the hours of darkness. This support and this appreciation together with our sincere faith and devotion should be dedicated a living monument of immortality to all the heroes of all our services. To offer more than this would be impossible, to offer less, unthinkable. However, if it be expedient that we offer also a temporal token, then let it be offered in the name and in the dignity of human service and not in the dead image nor by the dead hand of symbols.

"Monuments of men in time
"Grow cold in stone and fade in rhyme
"They cannot speak."

"Sedalia has a splendid war record on all fronts. This record is conclusive evidence that Sedalia has what it takes to get the job done. If it be consistent with the desires of the citizens of this community that we architecturally, educationally, or recreationally express our gratitude to our boys and girls the first thing first. Let us not confuse the city's actual needs and necessities with the real worth and beauty of a fitting memorial. Let the City Council membership be constituted a legal committee to meet with and plan with any and all civic and patriotic groups of this community for the purpose of cementing together all divergent ideas on this subject in accordance with the accepted processes of democracy. If this be done honestly and diligently, we are assured a monument reflecting the love and appreciation of a grateful citizenship.

"You are truly,
"Dick Keenan,
"1413 East Fourth St.
"Sedalia, Missouri."

HARREL SWIFT in the football game against Missouri, suffered a dislocated shoulder, and although it was heart breaking to him because he felt that he had lost all chances to win his 1945 football title, he is to get another surprise. Harrell is going to get his letter.

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow in discussing Swift's injury said, "gosh, Scruton, I lost a good boy off the team in that Marshall game. I expect him to be out the rest of the year. I have no thought of using him because that shoulder is too weak, and cannot heal in time for him to get back into condition to play. Anyway I wouldn't take any chances of getting him permanently injured."

I asked Dow if Swift's chances of getting a letter were out because he could not play in enough quarters to qualify. Coach Dow said "Any boy who works as hard as Swift, or several others on the team, gets injured and I think he should not play the rest of the season, then that boy will get his letter. As long as they keep plugging away as hard as he has, and tries to learn football like he has, then anybody who gets hurt on my team can expect to be lettered."

"However, I shall be the judge about giving out that letter and I will know if any boy is laying down or putting on a false front to make me think he is working. But I want you to understand, Swift is a good boy, a mighty good boy and I'll miss him."

THE Neely-Willets feud must still be on. I was notified by Glenn Neely the past week that he had learned Ed Willets has a slightly used set of "slicing" golf clubs to sell. I couldn't contact Willets Saturday to see if it was true, so will be waiting an answer.

Willets did admit the other day, he wasn't playing any too much golf as he had been busy and guessed that had a lot to do with his game.

I'll say this for him, I have known the time when he was the toughest golfer to walk the Country Club course, and if he gets back to his swing, he will be tougher.

Deer Season To Be Three Days

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 29.—(P)—Getting set for the Missouri deer hunting season Nov. 1-3, the State Conservation Commission today issued its 1945 set of rules and announced that special "deer tags" costing $3 will be on sale within two weeks.

The only new notes on the coming season are happy ones for the hunter: One day has been added to the season and one more county, Phelps, opened to shooting.

A deer tag is required of every huntsman, along with his regular county or state license. Within his own county, a hunter needs only the tag and a county license. Outside his county, he must possess a state permit.

Because 1944 hunters found their eyes dimmed from a five-year layoff, this second successive season will be stretched one more day and a larger supply of the nimble deer will be roaming the countryside. The Commission reported that only 519 bucks were killed a year ago, many less than expected.

Deer tags will be sold in county clerks' offices and twenty-one counties, mostly in the Ozarks, will be open to hunters.

One buck with at least one forked antler will be allowed each hunter, and from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the three open days the deer may be stalked. Rifles of any caliber and shotguns may be used, with a charge containing only a single ball or slug. Buckshot will be illegal and hunters cannot use dogs.

Fourth-fifths of the bucks bagged in 1944 were shot with large caliber rifles, the Commission reported. Twelve per cent were felled by .22 rifles, eight per cent by shotguns and one disciple of Robin Hood succeeded with a bow and arrow.

Kansas Achieves A Skunk Distinction

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(P)—Kansas long has been known for its wheat production. Now it has achieved another distinction.

It's the skunk trapping state in the Union.

The fish and wildlife service sniffed out this interesting fact and put it in its report on last year's fur catch.

All told, Kansas did a brisk fur business in 1944, trapping 453,596 fur bearing animals.

This compared with 515,400 in 1943; 478,389 in 1942 and 853,857 in 1940.

The number of skunks caught totaled 175,515. But Kansas also furnished fur from 118,314 opossum; 116,297 muskrat, 23,987 coyote; and 15,666 raccoon.

Also Kansas was credited with 1,381 mink and 938 badgers.

'Geo. Stirnweiss Day' Celebrated By Yanks

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(P)—The New York Yankees celebrated "George Stirnweiss Day" at the Yankee stadium today by defeating the Boston Red Sox 5-0 before 10,364 paid fans and about 10,000 youngsters from the Police Athletic League who came to cheer Stirnweiss, himself a graduate of the P.A.L.

Ex-soldier Spud Chandler twirled the shutout, giving up seven blows to register his second triumph since his discharge early his month.

Stirnweiss played a valiant part in the shutout victory. His lead off hit, steal of second, Charley Keller's triple and Nick Etten's single accounted for two runs. In the 6th Stirnweiss doubled Aaron Robinson home from second. Etten's 18th home run following Keller's safe bunt accounted for the final two Yankee runs in the seventh.

Time: 8:30 p.m., Tuesday.

Jerry Meeker, Columbus, Ohio, who with Larry Tillman recently defeated Marshall Estep, Sturgeon, and Harold "Sonny" Myers, in a team match, is to meet Estep Tuesday night in the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion wrestling match. Last week Estep beat Meeker's teammate, now Meeker wants another shot at Estep—which he is going to get.

Meeker with his rough tactics is matching wits with Estep who has both the talent of a wrestler and a "rougher." Estep hasn't gotten over the defeat he suffered to Meeker recently, not only in the team match but a match with Meeker. The Sturgeon wrestling postmaster is hoping to get even.

In the semi-windup Ken Fenlon, who defeated Amir Badui in the preliminary match last Tuesday returns this week to meet Roy Gardner, a Texas wrestler from Dallas. Gardner hasn't appeared in the local ring before and hopes to win the following of the local fans.

Lee Wyckoff, Nevada, Mo., a former holder of the heavyweight title is coming to Sedalia to appear in the preliminary match meeting Otto Schnabel who hails from Los Angeles, Calif., and Detroit. Schnabel was unable to be here last Tuesday, but appeared in the local ring recently against "Big Ben" Morgan, and also refereed one show, much to the satisfaction of the local wrestling followers.

Jr. Legion-Merchant Series Is Postponed

The baseball game between the Pettis County Post No. 16 American Legion, Junior baseball team and the Sedalia Merchants, which was to have opened a series at Liberty Park today, has been postponed. A muddy diamond and rain caused the postponing of the game until possibly Sunday, October 7.

In years past it was a custom to hold a three-day game city series at the close of the baseball season between the two leading ball clubs of Sedalia, and although the series has not been staged for several years, it was to be resumed this season.

The Legion had a most successful season being the runner-up team in the State Legion baseball tournament, and the Merchants likewise produced a good season during the year in semi-pro baseball.

Conditions permitting, the games will get underway next Sunday afternoon at Liberty Park.

Duck Hunters To Get Up One Hour Earlier

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 29.—(Special)—Duck hunters will have to get up one hour earlier by the clock in order to reach their blinds by opening, time this season as a result of the return to Central Standard Time.

Shooting hours, according to federal and state regulations, are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset in open season. With the clocks turned back, sunrise will occur one hour earlier and sunset—time to put away the guns and take up the decoys—likewise will occur an hour earlier. The waterfowl hunting season opens October 13.

The change also will affect trout fishermen in Bennett Springs, Montauk, and Roaring River State Parks and other special trout management areas, according to the State Conservation Commission. In these trout areas fishing is permitted from sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset from March 1 to October 31.

Hunting hours for quail, rabbits, squirrels and groundhogs also are listed in the State Wildlife and Forestry Code as from sunrise to sunset. Deer hunting last year was permitted from 7:30 a. m. to 6 p.m. Central War Time. Anticipating the change to Standard Time, the Conservation Commission fixed the deer hunting hours for the Nov. 1-to-3 open season this year from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Central Standard Time.

The Conservation Commission stated that the sunrise-sunset table appearing in the Wildlife and Forestry Code book for 1945 could be corrected to Central Standard Time simply by subtracting one hour from each of the times listed.

CERTAIN-TEED SHINGLES
This scientific development in the manufacture of Asphalt roofing was originated by Certain-teed. In "Millerizing" lies one of the definite reasons for the superiority of Certain-teed Roofs. This process of Super Spray Saturation is based on a simple fact—that "asphalt is the life of the roof." Consequently, the more uniformly and thoroughly you can saturate that piece of material, the longer the roof will last. In "Millerizing" hot asphalt is sprayed many times from one side only, forcing out all air and moisture. The asphalt then is readily absorbed and thoroughly fills the pores of the felt. The felt is dipped for final saturation and then receives its sealing coatings.
When you specify Certain-teed Shingles and Roll Roofings, you are specifying longer roof life because they are "Millerized."

Collet Borrowed From Judiciary

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Judge John C. Collet of Kansas City was appointed Friday as Stabilization Administrator in the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

Reconversion Director John W. Snyder announced appointment of Judge Collet to direct the functions recently transferred to Snyder's office as a result of the abolition of the Office of Economic Stabilization.

Collet, a U. S. district judge for eastern and western districts of Missouri, is being "borrowed" from the judiciary to handle his duties, beginning Oct. 3, Snyder's announcement said.

Judge Collet was appointed to the federal bench in 1937 while a member of the Missouri supreme court. He was the youngest member of that tribunal at 39. He is the son of James A. Collet, who was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate in 1928.

He served as city attorney in his home town, Salisbury, Mo., and twice was prosecuting attorney of Chariton county.

In 1933, Governor Park appointed Judge Collet chairman of the state public service commission, and upon the resignation of Judge Walter D. Coles from the supreme bench, Governor Park appointed him to that position.

Beer License Granted

The county court Friday granted a 3.2 beer license to Coy W. Spry of Green Ridge for the Green Ridge cafe. The license will expire March 28, 1946.

First Sub Sinker

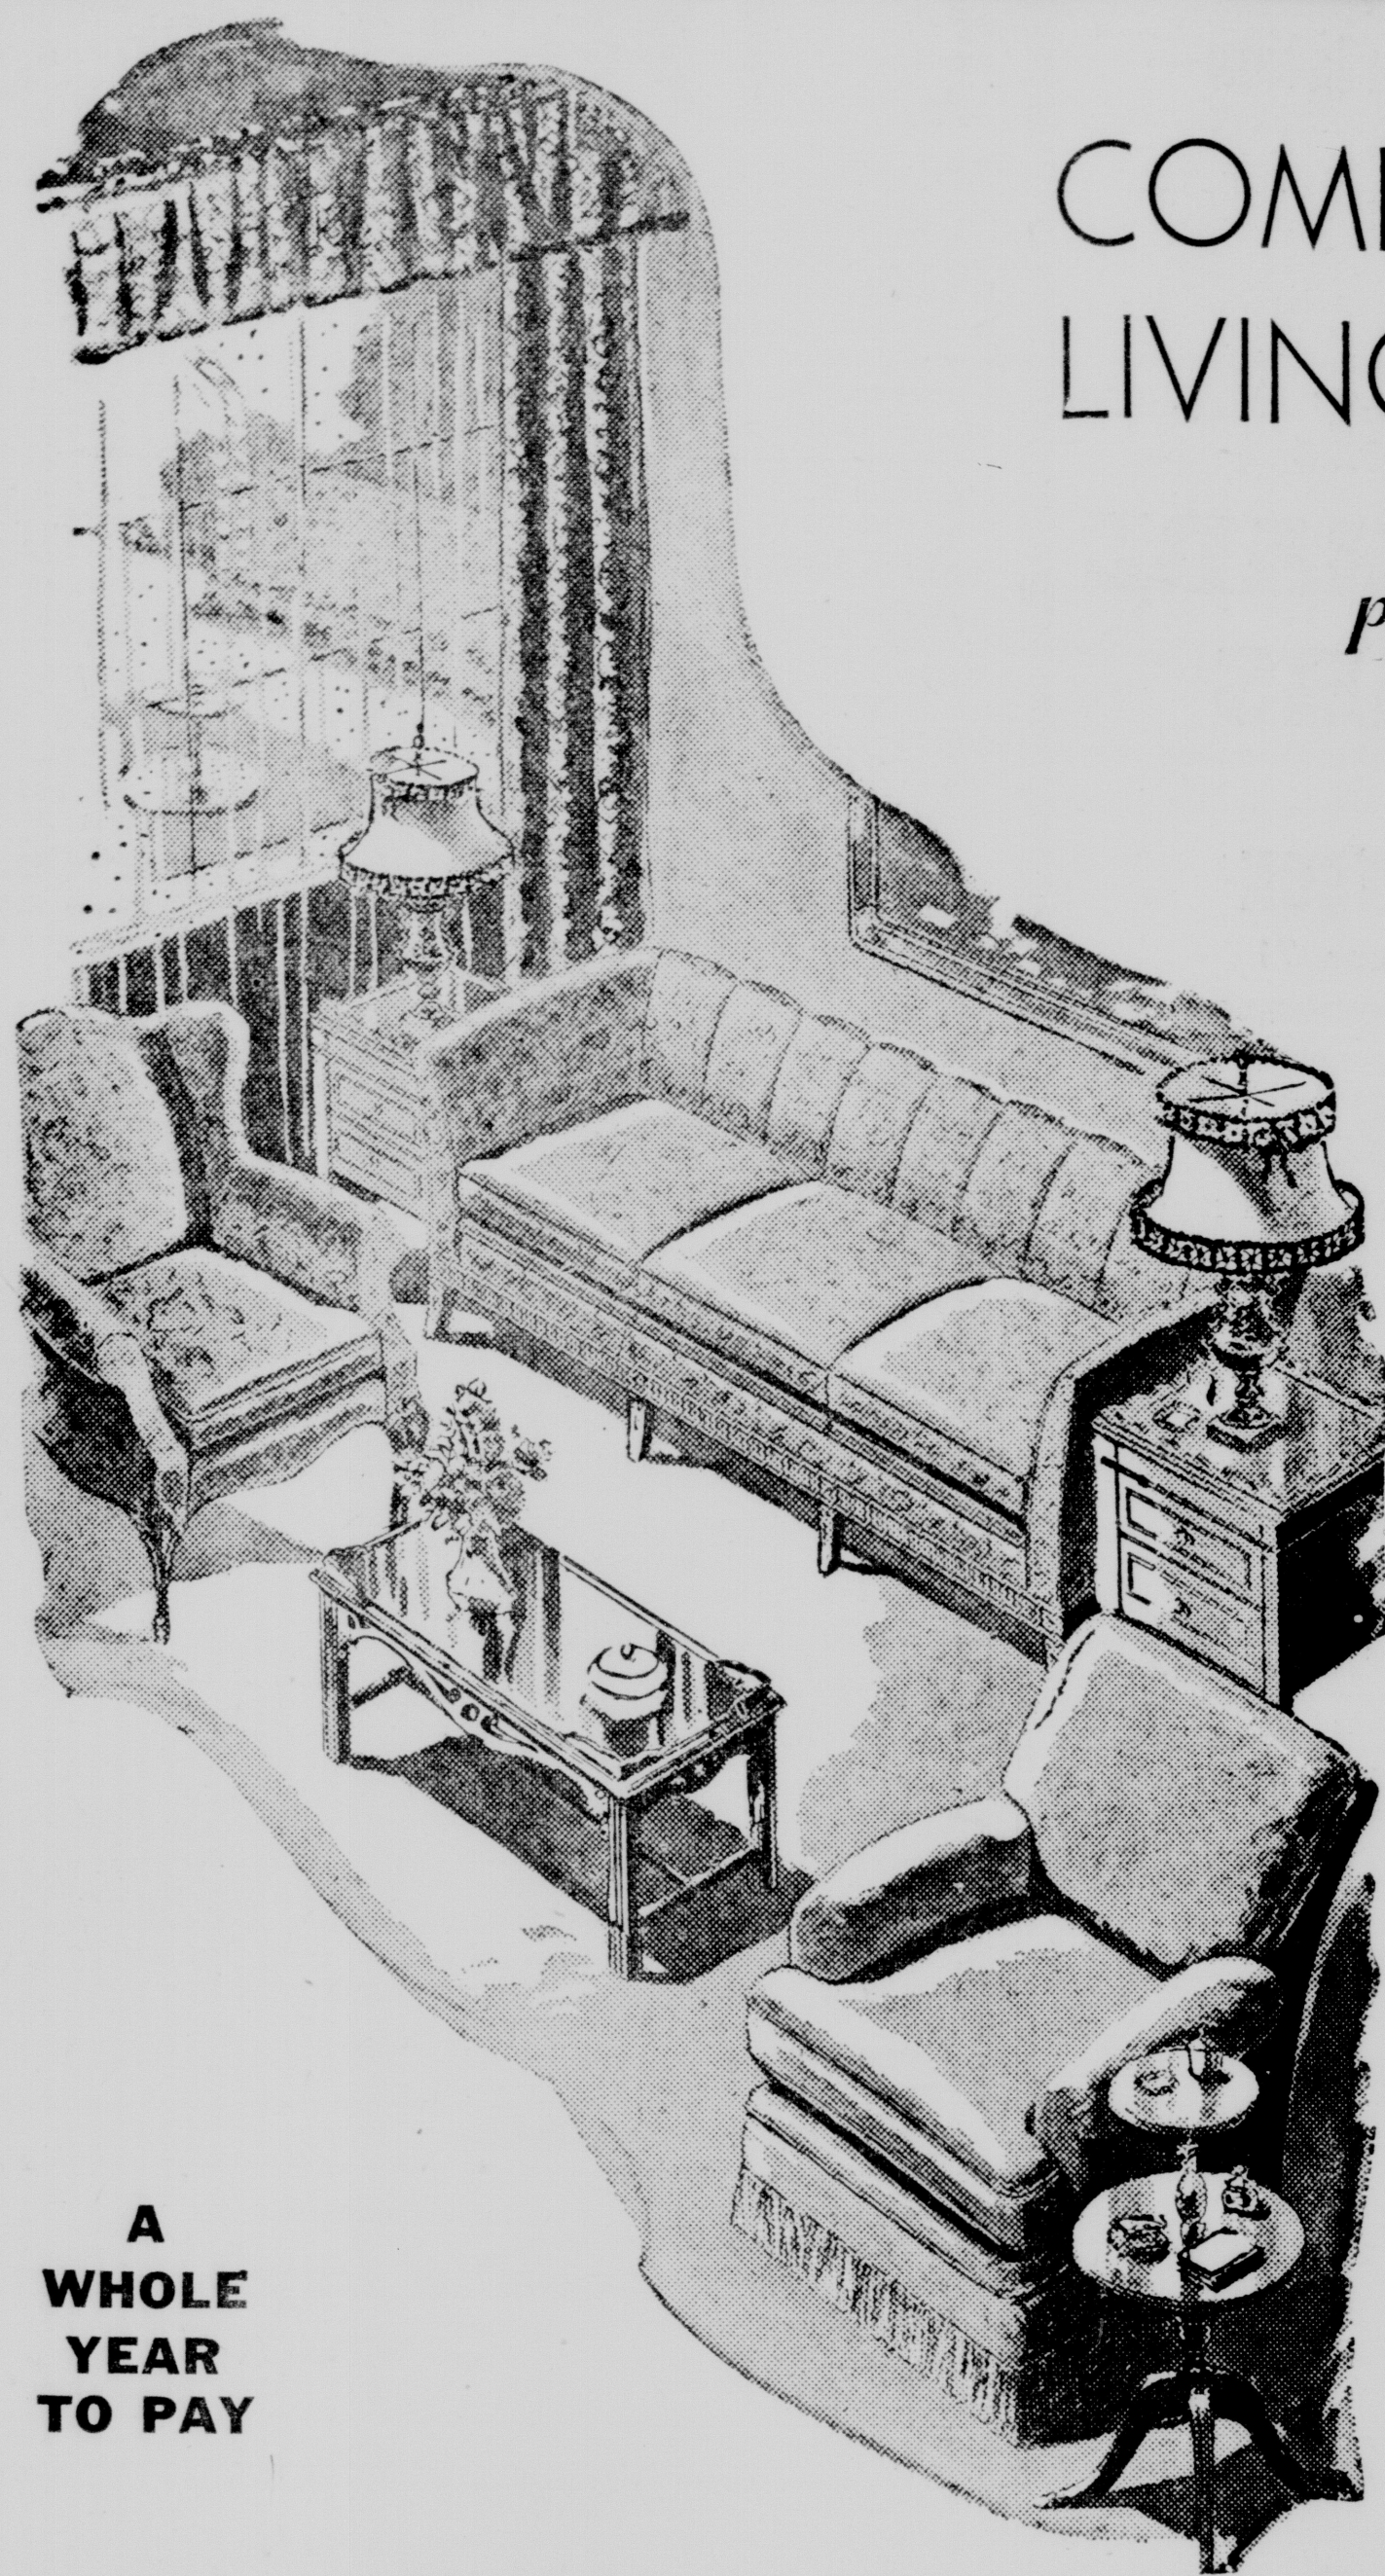

Official credit for sinking the first Nazi submarine in American waters in World War II has been given the Coast Guard cutter ICARUS. The sinking took place off the coast of the Carolinas in the spring of 1942.

Automotive Hint

Do not run your automobile motor with the fan belt too tight. It should have only sufficient tension to keep it from being thrown off the pulleys when the motor is run at high speed.

Britain vs. America

Great Britain exceeds the United States in imports, but not in exports. Great Britain ranks first in the value of exports and imports combined, with the United States second.
